

Panic in Mexico City Revolution Is Seething

THE CITY OF MEXICO.

Suburbs Threatened With Attack by the Rebels; Riot May Follow Demonstration by Students.

MUTINY AT JUAREZ QUELLED BY CHIEF

Cabral Captures Cananea; Moves Upon Nogales; Acapulco in Hands of Insurgents.

Summary of Events in Mexican War

Citizens of City of Mexico in state of alarm over probable attack on suburbs by the rebels and demonstrations by the students. Madero quells mutiny headed by General Orozco at Juarez and assists Navarro to escape to the American side of the river in order to save him from death at the hands of the insurgents. Juan Cabral captures Cananea, his home city, and is received with great rejoicings by the citizens and members of his family. Cabral calls upon the federal commander at Nogales to surrender and upon receiving a negative reply announces his intention of attacking the place this morning. Federal forces preparing to escape to Hermosillo by train. Battle in progress at Torreon, the federals holding the town so far. News received at Mexican capital of the capture of Acapulco May 8 by the insurgents.

MEXICO CITY, May 13.—With a large part of the capital's garrison patrolling the outskirts of the city to ward off possible attack by rebels and the remainder ready to assist the police in quelling a riot in the downtown district, residents here had their thrills of the revolution today. Acting on information that the revolutionists were planning an attack on the suburbs, presumably Chapala or San Angel, and that the long-talked-of students' demonstration was to occur this afternoon, every precautionary measure was taken.

Not only were troops detailed to watch the suburbs, but an order was issued by the police department for the saloons to close at 2 o'clock. The attack by the rebels did not take place and the students' demonstration was postponed.

The rebels are encamped near Ajusco mountain and are not expected to advance to the city. The government will not relax its vigilance.

Afraid of Demonstration. It was feared a student demonstration might precipitate a general disturbance. The ruffian element would be sure to join in and this coming at the moment of an attack by rebels, even though few in number, would present serious difficulties.

Throughout the city the idea of self-defense is growing. Preliminary steps looking to an organization have been taken by the committee representing the American colony, although the action has not found unanimous approval.

The chamber of commerce decided not to take any concerted action, but leave the protection of business houses to individual owners.

Similar action has been taken in Guadalupe. This afternoon there was circulated an appeal to Mexicans to inscribe their names in the roster of those who would defend their homes and business houses. The revolutionists, and especially Madero, are bitterly arraigned in the circular.

Something of a sensation was occasioned by the publication in El Heraldo of a letter signed by four young men high in Mexican society, who announced that they have espoused the cause of Madero and have placed themselves at his disposal.

PREPARING FOR THE M'NAMARA TRIALS DECLARED HE CAME BACK FROM HEAVEN

Both Prosecution and Defense Observe Extreme Secrecy in the Preliminary. Experience of Charles F. Davenport Who Survived Two Days After His Return.

M'NAMIGAL'S PHOTOGRAPH SUFFERED INTENSE AGONY

Picture Taken at San Gabriel Two Days Before the Iron Works Explosion. Released by Death at the Hour He Predicted the Grim Reaper Would Come.

By Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, May 13.—With extreme secrecy both the prosecution and the defense are preparing for the trial of John J. McManigal, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, and his brother, James B. McManigal, charged with a series of murders by the use of dynamite.

The prosecution considers that it made a great gain in partly substantiating the alleged confession of Ortie McManigal by the location of a photograph of him which he said was taken while he was here in December, prior to the explosion at the Llewellyn iron works.

The photograph showed him in the shade of a great palm tree. Front of the San Gabriel mission, and according to the records of the photographer who took it, he was there December 23, 1910, two days before the explosion. He is credited with saying that he wanted the picture of himself to prove that he was here on the errand upon which, he is said to assert, he was sent by the McNamaras.

Just when Clarence Darrow will arrive here to assume the duties of leading counsel for the accused men is not known, according to his colleagues.

The prosecution is alleged to be keeping two labor leaders of this state under surveillance, but as to the possibility of arrests nothing is said. No names are mentioned officially and both the prosecution and the defense disclaim the assertion that any accurate information concerning the transcript of evidence taken by the grand jury has been given out. The made an agreement not to make public the transcript for fear the possible jurors might be prejudiced by it and the trial thus be retarded.

APPOINTMENTS MEN FOR THE CAPITOL

Lepper, all of Salt Lake; Joseph Nelson of Provo; L. S. Hodgson of Ogden. Commissioner of Immigration, Labor and Statistics—H. T. Haines of Emery county. Director, Utah State Fair Association—T. P. Thomas of Salt Lake. Examiner of Public Accounts—J. Perry Goddard of Cache county. State Inspector of Livestock—A. Carrington Young. State Horticultural Commission—J. Edward Taylor of Salt Lake, state inspector; W. H. Homer Jr., of Utah county; Thomas Judd of Washington county. State Board of Veterinary Medical Examiners—Parker of Ogden, J. W. Gray of Salt Lake, J. W. Treman of Salt Lake.

Governor William Spry last night announced nineteen appointments of state officials, including the members of the state capitol commission, which will decide on the plans and supervise the construction of Utah's new state capitol. Nearly all of the appointments were to positions created by the recent state legislature and these appointments are effective beginning May 15, sixty days following the adjournment of the legislature. All appointments are for the recess term, until the next legislature convenes.

By the provisions of the law providing for the creation of the state capitol commission, that body consists of seven members, three being state officers who are ex-officio members of the board, and the other four being appointees of the governor. By the terms of the law the commission is non-partisan, not more than two of the appointive members being members of the same political party.

The state capitol commission, completed by the appointments of yesterday, consists of Governor William Spry, chairman, Secretary of State C. S. Tingey, ex-officio chairman, Attorney General Albert R. Barnes, C. E. Loane, John Henry Smith, John Dorn and Matt S. Browning. All of the members of the commission are to serve without pay. A meeting of the commission will probably be held some time this week when the commission will organize, elect a secretary and a superintendent of buildings and grounds and make preliminary plans for the first steps to be taken towards the construction of the building.

Are Prominent Citizens. The members of the commission named yesterday by Governor Spry are all prominent Utah citizens who have taken an active interest in public affairs. C. E. Loane is a prominent Provo citizen, who is at present chairman of the Republican state committee and a member of the Republican national committee. John Henry Smith is second counselor to President Joseph F. Smith of the Mormon church. He has been active in political affairs of the state and was president of the constitutional convention. He is a Republican. John Dorn has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for governor in 1912. He is an active Democrat and high in the councils of his party. In business Mr. Dorn is one of the prominent men of the state, having extensive mining interests, and is president of the American Mining Association. Matt S. Browning, the other Democratic member of the capitol commission, is a prominent Ogden business man.

Is Important Board. The state capitol commission is one of the most important state boards ever created. Upon this commission will fall the responsibility of selecting plans for the construction of the new state capitol. The commission will have the expenditure of two and one-half million of dollars at its disposal. Of this amount there is immediately available in actual cash $750,000, secured from the Harrison inheritance tax and appropriated for the construction of the new capitol. In addition, there is almost immediately available $500,000 obtained from the redemption fund of the bond issue of 1892, and $700,000 from the sale of state lands as provided for in the enabling act. Still further, two bond issues have been authorized to provide funds for the capitol construction. One authorized by the legislature of 1911 is a bond issue of $1,000,000. This gives the commission a total of $2,250,000 with which to construct the capitol.

Plans Are Discussed. Plans for the construction of the building have been discussed in a general way by the governor and it is probable that the commission will agree to follow the governor's plans. Before the plans for the construction of the building are finally approved, members of the commission will visit the capitols of other states and study in detail their construction, so that Utah may profit from their experience.

Several architects are already preparing plans which will be submitted to the commission soon. Most of the Utah architects will submit plans, as will also prominent architects from all parts of the country.

It will probably be several weeks before plans are approved by the commission. Then the work will be prosecuted with vigor and as much haste as is consistent with substantial construction will be made.

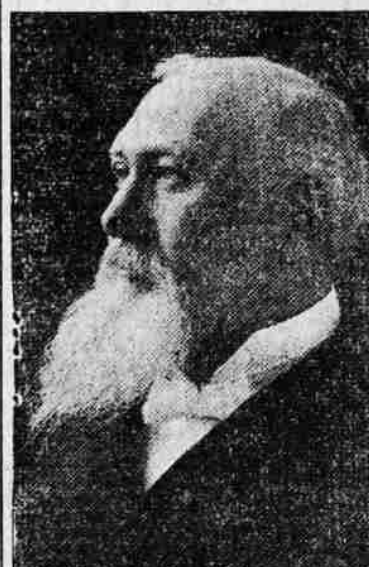

It is probable that the new state capitol will be built largely of Utah materials, even though the cost may prove a trifle higher than that of imported materials. Utah produces all building materials necessary with the exception of steel for the framework. It is estimated that the building will be completed within four years' time.

The state board of architecture was appointed by the governor in conformity with the provisions of the law.

MAKING READY FOR CAMPAIGN

Interpretation Placed Upon the Appointment of Henry L. Stimson by President.

By Leased Wire to The Tribune. WASHINGTON, May 13.—President Taft is getting ready for the presidential campaign of 1912. This is the interpretation placed upon the appointment of Henry L. Stimson of New York to succeed Jacob M. Dickinson as secretary of war. It was learned today that President Taft's recent conference with New York leaders have convinced him that he will have to make desperate efforts if he hopes to keep that state in the Republican column.

That his plans contemplate bringing both Republican factions together is indicated by the appointment of Charles S. Millington of Herkimer, N. Y., to be assistant treasurer at New York City. With Stimson representing the Roosevelt faction of the party and Millington representing the Sherman-Barnes conservative element, the president, it is declared, has gone a long way toward bringing both factions into his camp.

Aside from the fact that Mr. Stimson's appointment is significant in connection with the campaign to be waged in New York, it is generally believed in Washington that it is significant also of national politics. The personnel of the president's cabinet at the beginning of his administration was not satisfactory to the progressive element in the party.

In addition to the bitter antagonism to Secretary Ballinger because of his activity in the Alaska coal land cases several of the cabinet officers were objects of criticism. Secretary Dickinson is a Democrat and even while serving as secretary of war was a receptive candidate for the nomination for United States senator in Tennessee. Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh is a free trade Democrat and Postmaster General Hitchcock is objected to because of his political activity.

MURRAY SHOT ME, LAVENDER TELLS OFFICERS

Deputy Sheriff of Layton Visits Jail and Identifies Morris and His Pal.

EVIDENCE AGAINST MEN IS PILING UP

Sheriff Harris of Davis County Takes No Stock in Alibi of the Holdups.

I am positive that James Murray, now in the county jail at Salt Lake City, charged with the robbery of the Uncle Sam pawnshop, is the man who shot me on the early morning of May 4, in front of the Layton hardware store. I also am positive that J. J. Morris, his pal, charged with murder, is the man who was with him at the time. Deputy Sheriff William Lavender of Layton.

Deputy Sheriff William Lavender of Layton, who was shot by a holdup in front of the Layton hardware store on the early morning of May 4, came to Salt Lake City yesterday, accompanied by Sheriff Harris of Davis county, for the purpose of identifying J. J. Morris and James Murray as the men whom he encountered on that fateful morning.

After seeing the men in the county jail Deputy Sheriff Lavender said he was positive that Murray was the man who shot him and that Morris was with him at the time.

"The reports given out at the time of the shooting were slightly erroneous," said Deputy Sheriff Lavender to The Tribune. It was announced that I only encountered one man, when the fact is that there were two men. I do not blame anybody for this, however, as I was not in a condition to talk immediately after the shooting, as the shot perforated my windpipe and I was in some doubt as to whether I would pull through.

Tragedy Recalled.

"In making my rounds that morning I encountered two men standing near the Layton hardware store. I said to them, 'What are you doing here?' and without a word in reply the man whom I identified today (James Murray) whipped out a gun and fired, the bullet striking me in the neck. I fired several shots at the men as they fled from the scene, but I presume that none of them took effect."

Further discussing his identification of the two men, Deputy Sheriff Lavender said: "Of course I did not see the men under the same circumstances that I saw them at Layton. At that time they had on their hats and coats, while today they did not have on these articles of clothing, and in addition, they knew that they were being brought out for the purpose of identification. Still, I am positive that Murray is the man who shot me and that Morris was with him."

View of Sheriff Harris.

Sheriff Fred Harris, who accompanied Deputy Sheriff Lavender to Salt Lake, believes firmly in the identification of the holdups by Lavender, despite the alibi, which the men have attempted to prove. Both Morris and Murray allege that they were in an Ogden hotel at the time of the shooting of Lavender and a superficial investigation of the matter appears to bear them out. However, Sheriff Harris is still of the opinion that the men were in Layton. The landlady of the Ogden hotel at which Morris was registered at the time of the shooting there and that he was in his room, said that he was in his room. Sheriff Harris is of the opinion that Morris registered as a blind and that some other member, or members, of the gang occupied the room, while Morris and Murray went to Layton for the purpose of pulling off a robbery.

'Corbett' Still Mumm.

Sheriff Harris also believes that the man now in the Farmington jail, who was arrested at Cache Junction two days after the Layton affair, is a member of a gang of which Morris and Murray were the leaders. This man gave his name as 'James Corbett,' the same name borne by the former heavyweight pugilist of the world. 'Corbett' has refused to talk, but his appearance and general demeanor, since his arrest, has convinced the officers that he is a dangerous man.

Sheriff Harris's belief that Morris and Murray, together with 'Corbett,' are members of a dangerous gang of yeggmen, is shared by Sheriff Sharp, who is doing his utmost to obtain the record of the men. Sheriff Sharp is working upon some clues which he believes will result in the complete identification of the men within a few days.

COLORADO SHEEPMAN IS SHOT DURING QUARREL

By Associated Press. MONTROSE, Colo., May 13.—John McKnight, a sheepman of Cimarron, was shot through the body and dangerously wounded this morning by Sam Fleah, another sheepman, in a quarrel over range rights. McKnight was taken to the sheriff's office and is expected to recover.
